4 Satellite Chiefs Arrive In Russia

. . . SVOBODA'S RETURN WANTED

Moscow (P) — A third day of tough bargaining between the Kremlin and Czechoslovak President Ludvik Svoboda failed Sunday to bring agreement on ending the occupation of Czechoslovakia in a way that would save both Moscow's face and Prague's democratic trend. Communist chiefs of four Soviet allies arrived, possibly to take part in the talks Monday.

The Soviet news agency Tass said Sunday's discussions on the five-day occupation were "frank and comradely." The extension of the talks and the word "frank" indicated disagreement still ran deep.

Presumably the party heads of Poland, East Germany, Bulgaria and Hungary, whose troops joined in invading Czechoslovakia Tuesday, would take part in any decisions. Their presence here was confirmed by the Czechoslovak Embassy but there was no official Soviet word of their arrival or their participation in the talks.

Against Puppet Regime

Principal negotiator for the Czechoslovaks was Svoboda, who was reported to be holding out against any puppet government in Prague. Party leader Alexander Dubcek, principal figure in the lib-eralization drive, was said to be at his side.

Elsewhere, free Prague Radio quoted Zdenek Silhan, filling in for Dubcek at home, as saying government and party leaders in Prague had urgently asked Svoboda to come back and deal with a deteriorating situation there.

The four arriving Communist leaders, rumored since Saturday to be heading for Moscow, were Walter Ulbricht of East Germany, Wladyslaw Gomulka of Poland, Janos Kadar of Hungary and Todor Zhivkov of Bulgaria.

In Prague, where resistance was still strong, a clandestine call went out for a 15-minute general strike Monday at 9 a.m. local time.

Deteriorating

Silhan's statement cited a deteriorating situation, "particularly with respect to the behavior of the invading forces in Czechoslovakia, where angry citizens were reported continuing their resistance with tricks learned in previous invasions by other powers and with radio broadcasts from half a dozen clandestine stations."

In London, a Czechoslovak Embassy press officer said the situation in Prague was becoming explosive and Russian troops "trigger-happy."

Gunfire, a nightly sound in Prague since the occupation began, was heard again Sunday night. A radio report said Soviet troops fired when Czechoslovak youths burned leaflets the Russians had tossed out of armored vehicles in Wenceslas Square. The shots apparently were aimed into the air.

Active Elsewhere

Except for a few scuffles the Czechoslovak capital was quiet during the day Sunday, after a night in which the occupiers' gunfire was said to have killed several more protesting Czechoslovaks. But elsewhere the resistance was reported active.

Soviet Tanks Ring Prague

New York Times Service

Prague — With new Soviet armor and troops continuing to arrive, Prague was ringed Sunday by at least three Soviet divisions equipped with tanks, self-propelled artillery and rocket-launchers.

Estimates in Prague were that the Soviet strength in and around the city has increased from some 30,000 men to 50,000 men in the last 48 hours.

The reinforcements began arriving after Svoboda flew to Moscow Friday.

The disposition of most of the Soviet strength appeared to be inward. This meant that tank, artillery and rocket-launcher positions were pointed at the city of Prague, which is surrounded by armor. Within the capital, too, the Soviet army is maintaining strong armor, motorized-infantry and paratrooper positions.

U.S. Embassy Fire Is Put Out

Prague (P) — A fire of unknown origin was brought under control at the U.S. Embassy here early Monday about an hour and a half after it broke out.

No one was injured. The fire was not the result of hostile action by the Soviet troops occupying Prague.

Most of the damage was to the top floor and attic, and embassy operations were not affected.

South American Students Adjust To Nebraska Life

By JIM STEVENSON
Star Staff Writer

Though they've yet to adopt a Nebraska twang, 15 South American students here are steadily taking command of the English language.

The fifteen, all Colombian graduate students who will attend universities in the U.S. for the next two years, are taking part in a University of Nebraska language and orientation course.

Three of the fifteen will attend NU next year. The rest will study at various schools across the country after their "graduation" here Friday.

Full Briefing

But if they're only temporary residents of the state, their instructor, Professor Curtis Hayes of the NU English department, is giving them a full briefing on their home away from home.

From "beer bust" to Willa Cather, the students — average age about 28 — are learning Nebraska lore.

But, "what does the 'bust' mean?" one puzzled student asked.

Parallels Drawn

Using Willa Cather's "My Antonia," Hayes points up the traditional small town life of the Midwest, drawing parallels between Nebraska past and present.

And though the bulk of the five-hour daily class periods are spent on mass recitations and accent improvement, things are never dull.

To spice things up, Hayes occasionally throws open a discussion on topics ranging from Vietnam to American political candidates.

Outside of class, time is spent in sight-seeing and group activities. And each of the students is living in the home of a local volunteer.

Recently, the fifteen took an overnight trip through the western part of Nebraska. Highlights included the Halsey National Forest and an agricultural research station in North Platte.

Fertile Ground

Since all of the students are majoring in agricultural fields, the state offers fertile ground for their interests.

The group was also introduced to Gov. Norbert Tiemann at a reception held in their honor recently.

From there it was back to the classroom and more recitation.

"Again," Hayes commanded after hearing the group recite one particularly sticky sentence.

"You're never going to sound like a Nebraskan unless you 'nasalize.'"

Defenders Of Besieged Camp Drive Off 3,000 Communists

Saigon (P) — A strong enemy force which had besieged the Duc Lap Special Forces camp near the Cambodian border for three days withdrew late Sunday after all-11 defenders, outnumbered 5 to 1, drove off attackers who had overrun one-third of the lonely outpost.

Before slipping into the jungle, the enemy launched a ground probe against a nearby government district headquarters, less heavily defended than the Green Beret camp, apparently in the hope of salvaging something from the offensive.

As the 3,000 enemy troops withdrew into the central highlands, a government force was approaching to reinforce the already-strengthened defenders of the camp. B52 bombers had flown nine missions in the area to break up enemy assault formations.

The turning point in the battle apparently came early Sunday when two companies of Vietnamese commandos led by American Special Forces men fought their way into the camp.

The reinforcements brought the total of allied forces to about 600, and the defenders were able to recover ground lost Saturday night.

Air force jets, trying to break up the enemy formations, reported knocking out five 50-caliber machine guns and setting off several secondary explosions among enemy ammunition caches.

Details of the final phase of the battle were sketchy, but reports said the enemy hit the camp and the district headquarters with a savage mortar, artillery and rocket barrage.

Casualties in the final stage of the fight were not immediately known.

The U.S. American Division said, meanwhile, that there was a second large battle in two days with a massive enemy force around the provincial capital of Tam Ky, 350 miles northeast of Saigon. A spokesman said 213 enemy troops were killed, bringing the two-day death total to 436. American losses were put at seven dead and 30 wounded.

Army Doctors Report Ike Is 'Holding Own'

Washington (P) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower is "holding his own" despite a weekend setback in his fight against his seventh heart attack. Army doctors reported Sunday.

The 77-year-old five-star general suffered no new episodes of life-threatening rapid heart actions during the day, the doctors said, although his condition, listed as critical, "remains essentially unchanged."

The doctors at Walter Reed General Hospital issued the "holding his own" appraisal in answer to a newsman's query if Eisenhower's condition was "worse than it has been at any time during his present attack."

The general took a turn for the worse Saturday, erasing relatively optimistic trends noted in earlier bulletins. Doctors said he suffered "several episodes of rapid heart action" Saturday night.

HHH Says Prospects Bright

Chicago (P) — Hubert H. Humphrey termed his presidential nomination prospects promising Sunday, but rival Eugene J. McCarthy said he could make a stronger Democratic bid for the White House.

And Texas Gov. John B. Connally said he does not plan to place President Johnson's name in nomination at the party's national convention.

Humphrey and McCarthy, top contenders for the Democratic nomination, arrived in Chicago as military transports delivered thousands of federal troops to the area, to be nearby if needed to cope with violence.

Amid Texas talk that Johnson's name might be a surprise ingredient when decision time arrives Wednesday, Connally said there will be no change in the longstanding plan to have him nominated as favorite son of his state's 104-vote delegation.

Another big and crucial delegation, the 118-vote Illinois bloc, remained an enigma. Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley held the silence he had said he would break Sunday, and announced "in the hope of an open convention" that his state's delegates will not disclose their majority stand until Wednesday.

The delegation caucused for three hours, heard Humphrey, McCarthy, Sen. George S. McGovern of South Dakota and Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia, the full array of Democratic candidates, aside from favorite sons.

"Everything's fine, fine," Humphrey said when he emerged.

Illinois Atty. Gen. William G. Clark, a candidate for the Senate, endorsed McGovern and said he had tried for 20 minutes to talk Daley into swinging the delegation behind the South Dakota senator. Clark acknowledged that at this point, the endorsement affected only one vote: his own.

While candidates faced delegates, demonstrators faced police in Lincoln Park.

About 2,000 hippies, yuppies and assorted protesters massed in the park and there was a brief, confused dispute when police hustled one youth toward a patrol wagon. At least five demonstrators were taken away by blue-helmeted police, but there was no real trouble.

Front-running Humphrey said he was not worried by signs of discord over policy and procedure on the eve of the national convention. He said it was "just a warmup for the main event" in which he expects to win the presidential nomination.

Elected Party Officials Unanimously For HHH

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Chicago — Vice President Hubert Humphrey gained the unanimous endorsement of Nebraska's elected Democratic state party officials Sunday on the eve of the national convention.

National Committeewoman Maurine Biegert, National Committeeman-elect J. J. Exon and State Chairman John Mitchell announced for the first time their support for Humphrey.

National Committeeman Marvin Werve, who will be succeeded by Exon upon conclusion of the convention, had previously endorsed the vice president.

To Vote For HHH

Both Mrs. Biegert and Werve will cast their votes for Humphrey Wednesday night when presidential balloting begins.

Neither Exon nor Mitchell are delegates.

Nebraska's 30 delegates will hold their first Chicago caucus at their headquarters hotel Monday morning.

Candidates Invited

All major announced candidates for the presidential nomination have been invited to address the delegation or send a spokesman.

Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia has formally requested an opportunity to appear before the delegation.

Mrs. Biegert announced her support for Humphrey as "a man of action, not just words."

pointed to the vice president's record as a member of the Senate, and praised "his understanding of the nation's problems and how to solve them."

'Tough' Nixon Foe

If nominated, Humphrey can give Republican presidential nominee Richard Nixon "a tough battle" in Nebraska, she predicted.

Mitchell said the nomination of Humphrey would provide "a healthier choice for the country between two vice presidents seasoned in the responsibilities of that job."

Humphrey has had "years of on-the-job training," the Omaha attorney said.

'Disenchanted'

Mitchell said he was "greatly disenchanted by Sen. Eugene McCarthy's recent pronouncements about the Czechoslovakian crisis."

Those statements, Mitchell said, "cast some doubt, at least in my mind, as to his ability to serve as the type of president I would like to see our country have in the four years ahead."

Mitchell described his views on the Vietnam war as "more hawkish than dovish," and said he is "not interested in any accommodation with the Communists."

Best-Qualified

Exon said he believes Humphrey is the best-qualified candidate "by reason of background, training and experience."

"He has the ability to be president, and he will show the ability to unite the Democratic Party," the Lincoln businessman said.

Men Hunt For Sunken Ship Carrying Load Of Mercury

By CRAIG CALLAWAY
Outstate Nebraska Bureau
Blair — To many persons it might look like a mudhole, this excavation at the DeSoto National Wildlife Refuge, but to Jesse Pursell and Sam Corbino it's the safe they have to crack to unlock a century-old lode of liquid money.

This mudhole, chopped out of the silt soil about a mile east of the present course of the Missouri River, was the two hunters hope, right in the middle of the river's course on April 1, 1865.

Vessel Sunk
On that date, many shifts of the river ago, the Bertrand, a St. Louis and Idaho line vessel loaded with quicksilver (mercury) and whisky, took a snag and went to the bottom. Pursell and Corbino are the latest to believe they have found it in the 103 years since. When it happened that April Fool's Day, the ship, a 160 footer under the command of Capt. James Yores, was about 20 miles up the river from Omaha and four miles south of Blair.

As the story goes, villagers at the old DeSoto landing ignored cries of "a boat is sinking," thinking it an April Fool joke. The ship sank in 10 minutes, and the fleeing crew evidently made no attempt to mark the spot in their flight.

Tales Grew
But the tales of the treasure grew, and the attempts to locate it during the years have gone uncounted. Some were attempts with diving rods, some major excavation projects.

About three years ago, said Pursell, an Omaha flight instructor, he and Corbino, who is in the rental business in Omaha, became interested enough to start "studying" and "researching" — and trudging through the woods of the refuge.

After combing "several hundred acres," they found the spot they believe is the right one, just off one of the paved roads that takes tourists through the refuge. To drive to the spot, you take Highway 30 from Blair across the Iowa line, then drive back around through the refuge.

The spot is in Nebraska, since the border follows the lines of the Missouri when the states were laid out.

Pursell and Corbino contracted with the federal government for the right to dig on the land, hired an Omaha sand and gravel company to do the digging and started into the silt soil last March. They got down about 10 feet and struck water.

Next came a 60-day shutdown during the summer while the government thought about making the site a national monument, should the Bertrand really be uncovered, and finally the partners got back to work this week.

Fruit Found
They know that some ship is under that water for sure, because their core drillings have brought up parts of whisky bottles, leather goods, some lead bars and "some fruit which was so well preserved it looked like you could've eaten it," Pursell said.

It is Pursell's hope that they will soon have completed digging some 40 wells, each about 50-feet deep, and that they'll then have the 12 remaining feet of water pumped out.

At that time will come the day of revelation, when they are able to walk down to the ship and say "this is" or "this isn't," the Bertrand.

100 Containers
If it is, Pursell and Corbino are contracted to give the government 40% of the treasure and keep 60% themselves.

How much that might be, however, Pursell claims he has no idea. He said the reports they found show the ship carried "100 earthenware containers" of the mercury, but that they don't know the size of the containers.

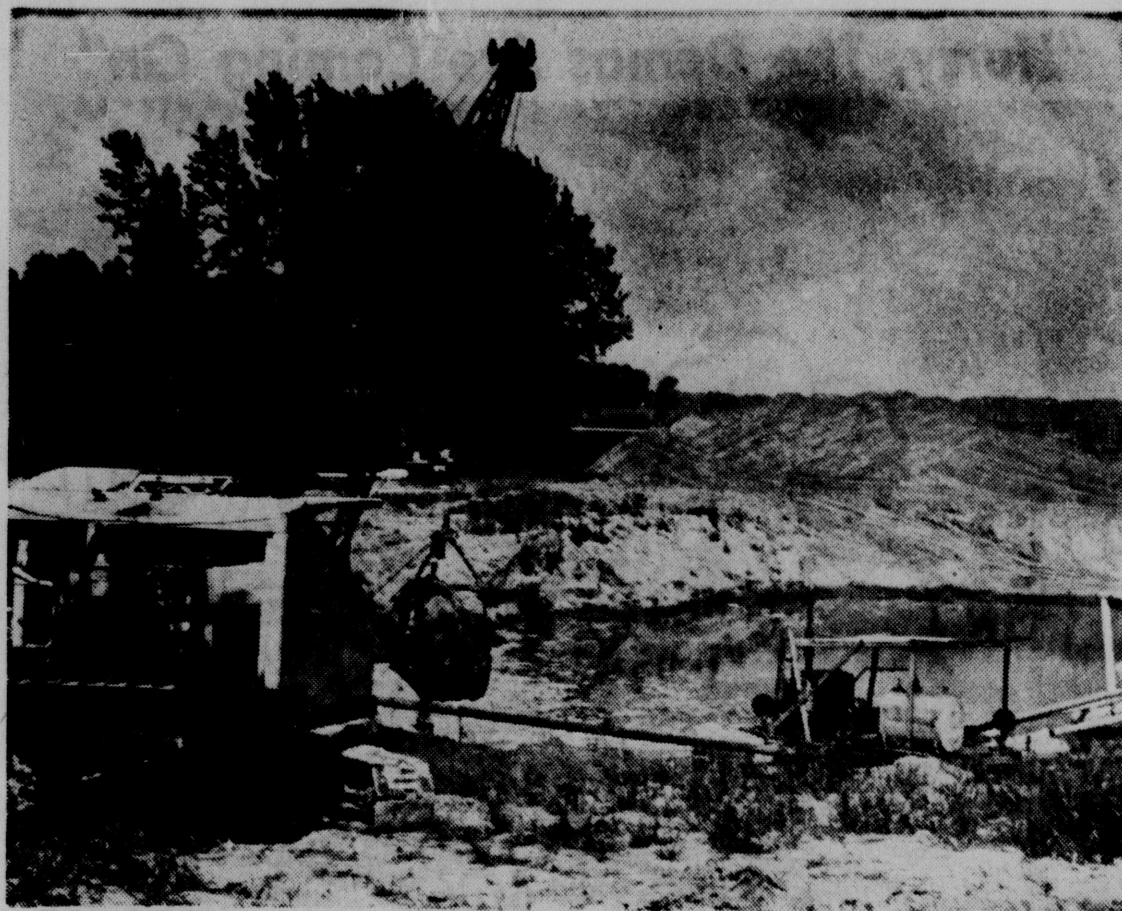

Refusing any guess at what their treasure might bring on the market, Pursell chuckled over the recent report of an Omaha television broadcaster: "On the 6 o'clock news, he had it worth $1 million, and on the 10 o'clock news it was $2 million."

The avalanche of newsmen has made Pursell and Corbino publicity-shy, as has the "20 calls a night" from people pumping for information, Pursell said.

They will say nothing about what the project is costing except, "It's gotten to be an expensive hobby."

Also they will give little information about their government contract other than the per cent provision. Pursell acknowledged that it contains a time clause, but, "We don't want to say anything about it."

Nor will Pursell go so far as to flatly predict that the day of revelation is going to produce the Bertrand. "We're as certain as we can be this is it, without, of course having definite proof," he said.

Peace, Freedom Effort Alive

Omaha (UPI) — Officials of the Nebraska Peace and Freedom Party Sunday said they would not give up even though they received a severe setback Saturday in efforts to establish the party on a statewide basis in Nebraska.

Tom McCarthy of Omaha, state field organizer, said officials were naturally disappointed, even discouraged. But nevertheless, he said, they will continue to work toward establishing a party organization in Nebraska.

The Nebraska branch of the party held an organizing convention Saturday in Elmwood Park here with a goal of 750 necessary signatures of Nebraska registered voters to place the party on the ballot. Only 260 signatures were obtained.

The field organizer said the lack of turnout can be explained in part by the lack of transportation. He said if he had it to do over again, he would have provided transportation for prospective members to Elmwood Park.

McCarthy also said publicity was not what it should have been. "Many people never really understood what the Peace and Freedom Party was trying to do," McCarthy added.

In answer to a question, he said he is not convinced rumors of violence played much of a role in discouraging a greater attendance.

Demo Plank To Support Full Parity Programs

Chicago (P) — The Democratic Platform Committee has adopted a plank calling for continuation of agriculture programs to bring farm income to full parity level, a committee member said Sunday.

The farm proposes also establishment of a strategic reserve of crops in order to stabilize farm prices, he said.

Hans O. Jensen, of Aurora, Neb., who wrote the farm plank, said it is much stronger than the party's 1964 farm plank and much more specific than the Republican plank.

The proposed plank, which will be presented to the Democratic National Convention for ratification, says federal programs should include "loans at 90% of parity, production payment, commodity purchases, marketing orders and agreements."

Jensen reported the plank says in part:

"It is in the national interest that farmers receive their fair share of the national income. It is imperative if we are to stop the exodus from the farm to the cities . . .

"And in attaining this objective, we shall take positive action to raise farm incomes to farm parity levels in order to reserve the family farm."

Jensen said the platform committee struck from the proposed plank a statement opposing laws that permit large corporations to use farming losses at a tax write-off.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Leaving for Chicago and the Democratic National Convention is a little like taking your first ride in a jet aircraft. It is a mixture of uncertainty and anxiety. It is something you look forward to and yet something you think you might end up wishing you had avoided.

Except for more people by way of delegates and alternates, this Chicago gathering will be a lot like that of the Republicans in Miami Beach two weeks ago. On the big question of a nominee, it is hard to find any suspense.

All indications are that the nomination for the top Democratic spot is sewed up by Vice President Hubert Humphrey. But as did Richard Nixon and the Republicans, Humphrey and the Democrats will have their problems.

For one thing, the Democrats seem to be even more split than the Republicans. Certainly, this is true of the Nebraska delegation, with some 10 delegates still uncommitted, three for Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota, five for Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota and 12 for Humphrey.

When the actual voting time comes, the delegation is expected to shift more heavily to Humphrey but things could upset that. The outcome of platform and credentials fights will determine the temper of the delegation and, thus, influence the voting.

If McCarthy makes a complete fight for the nomination, the Nebraska delegation is one that could be wooed. This would be in contrast to things in Miami when the Nebraska contingent was so tightly held by Nixon that it received relatively little notice.

What is true of Nebraska will be true of segments of the convention in general but Humphrey is still believed to have the upper hand. What he lacks, probably, is the control over dissident groups that Nixon was able to forge so successfully.

An even greater struggle for the party and Humphrey than unity will be a platform and an image that appeal to voters. It seems essential that the party and its nominee give to voters an impression of something new.

It cannot simply rely on the record of the Johnson administration, however good or bad that record might be in fact. Domestic troubles and international turmoil have the American people upset and they are looking for some alternatives to past methods and programs.

But there are a lot of party faithful for the Democrats to consider, too. These are the registered Democrats and workers who would turn out and work for the party and vote for it with great regularity.

There is a lot of loyalty in these ranks to President Johnson. Johnson simply is still a political force to be reckoned with and a convention which, in philosophy, turned its back upon an incumbent administration would certainly have its problems.

Thus, it would seem that Democrats in Chicago have a thin line to walk, just as did the Republicans in Miami as they tried to tie together a package that satisfied the delegates and appealed to the voters.

They were quite successful in satisfying most delegates but whether they satisfied enough voters will be determined in November. At this point, polls indicate a victory for Nixon in November.

Undoubtedly, the sentiment of people will have to be sampled again after the Democratic convention is over to gain a true picture of voter sentiment as we enter the stretch drive of the election. But Democrats and others who thought a Nixon nomination was a sure Humphrey victory have another thought coming.

And the Democrats face the challenge this week in a city where all kinds of hostile happenings are expected. If the convention itself gets dull, there could be more than enough going on elsewhere to pick up the slack.

DREW PEARSON

Hubert Humphrey, A Constant Battler

CHICAGO — Looking over past columns written about Humphrey, it's easy to understand how he got to his present high position. But it's also easy to understand why the youthful followers of Gene McCarthy have no conception of Humphrey's record. He showed courage on issues that were not popular before many of them were born.

It was 20 years ago this summer that Humphrey, then mayor of Minneapolis, rammed the first civil rights plank through the Democratic convention. The inside fact is that President Harry Truman didn't like the plank. A courageous president himself, it was too courageous for him.

Humphrey had the support only of Esther Murray of California and Andrew Biemiller, then a congressman from Milwaukee, now an official of the AFL-CIO. They first took their plank to Ed Flynn, famous boss of the Bronx. He read it carefully, then observed:

"I don't think you'll get anywhere with it, but the New York delegation will support you."

The Democratic Resolutions Committee adopted a watered-down 1948 stand on civil rights which the South would accept. But Humphrey, Biemiller and Esther Murray took their battle to the floor with a strong resolution to stop lynching, abolish the poll tax and segregation, and employment practices.

"We are 172 years late in acting," Humphrey told the convention.

There was a fiery debate. "You shall not crucify the South on this cross of civil rights!" cried Charles J. Bloch of Georgia.

But when the vote was taken, Ed Flynn and friends stood by his promise. By a vote of 651½ to 582½, Humphrey won. All the Mississippi delegation and half the Alabama delegation walked out. That November most of the South voted for Gov. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina.

Irony is that McCarthy's young followers are now ex-courting Humphrey because Southern delegates are supporting him in Chicago.

Humphrey, elected to the Senate in 1948 from Minnesota, a state with a negligible Negro vote, continued to battle for Negro rights.

In May, 1949, the young senator from Minnesota introduced a bill for federal aid to education. Twenty years ago this was revolutionary. It was not passed until Lyndon Johnson became president and applied his legislative skill to pushing it through Congress.

Like Kilroy, however, Humphrey was there first. And he stayed there, pitching continuously.

He also got there early to establish the food for peace program and the law which permits surplus farm products to be sold around the world. He introduced the bill in June, 1953, when Russian tanks were rumbling through East Berlin, as they are in Prague today. But he had to watch the Eisenhower administration ditch his bill and substitute one exactly like it under the name of Rep. Walter Judd, also from Minnesota, but a Republican.

It was Humphrey who first urged a study of Russian-American cooperation with a view to arms reduction. As early as 1950, Humphrey started badgering the Treasury Department about closing tax loopholes. Consistently he voted against the oil depletion allowance.

"Hurry, The Demos Are Coming On"

Another Form Of Anarchy

Americans in general deplore the violence in the streets and sometimes on the campuses that so disrupted our national scene in recent years. But they seem to approve, at other times, of another kind of anarchy cloaked in the language of the parlor.

Such an anarchy would be the product of Rep. Robert Denney's suggestion that the Constitution be amended to limit federal judges to a 10-year term. It would be an anarchy founded in a judicial system riddled with political favoritism and second-rate judges.

We hope that Representative Denney just wasn't thinking very well the day he made this suggestion. He said it should be the job of a judge to interpret the Constitution and statutes, not legislate. And it should be Denney's job to legislate, not seek to adjudicate, we might add.

What bothers the congressman, really, is that he just doesn't agree with the decisions the courts have made. But to change the judicial system because of this, especially in the manner suggested by Denney, would be disaster for the nation.

The real point is that the courts have to protect everyone, not just those who are considered to be "decent, law-abiding citizens." When the courts uphold the law and it benefits someone accused of a crime, that has to be accepted in the same manner you would accept a court decision upholding your right to petition the government or vote on election day.

To limit judicial terms to 10 years would open the bench to the blatant practice of politics. It is the security of the life tenure of such appointments now that makes them attractive and holds them above political influence.

On 'Unanalytical' Thinkers

Lincoln Star columnist Merryle S. Rukeyser wrote recently of the need for objective thinking on the part of the voter in this crucial election year. On that he is correct. But other statements in his column, it seems to us, were off the track.

He wrote, "In order to be heroes with pressure groups, some are repeating as a truism: 'I put human rights above property rights.' At first blush, the unanalytical person who hears the remark emotionally reacts: 'So do I.' But the seemingly harmless observation undercuts the very foundations of the American enterprise system. A correlative bit of soothing syrup is the cliché that 'there can be no law and order without justice.'"

Let us, as he said, "put the X-ray on these concepts."

First, who would the "pressure groups" be? This is a reference to civil rights groups, who do, indeed, place human rights above property rights. The right to property is a human right. Let's not forget that the argument over property rights boils down to one thing and one thing only: the right to discriminate because of race.

And as for the "soothing syrup" that there is no law and order without justice, let us just say that anyone—even George Wallace—could restore law and order, if there are enough guns and ammunition.

The crucial problem is to have both law and order and justice. And it is true, although Rukeyser denies it, that some people say "law and order" when, in fact, they mean "keep the Negroes in their place."

In Rukeyser's own words, "Civic virtue at election time consists of more than voting one's own appetites. It implies a capacity to put broad patriotism ahead of special benefits to individuals or blocs." Amen.

JAMES RESTON

Kremlin Decision On Czechoslovakia Was A Hasty One And Born Of Fear

the people were the mere instruments of power and ambition. But for a long time, the Soviet leaders believed their system would work and win the allegiance of the people. Now they know it won't.

The competition of even a little freedom was too much for them. The communist regime in East Germany could not stand the attractions of liberty and prosperity in the West. They thought the natural human impulse for individual liberty might spread from Czechoslovakia through all of Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union itself, and eventually dismember the whole communist empire. So they acted, not out of confidence but out of fear.

No doubt they will achieve their immediate objectives in Czechoslovakia. They will find a few Quislings. They will show us how to get "order," if not law or justice. They will control the press and muffle dissent in due course, but the decay of decency and the defiance of good faith are so plain that even the communists elsewhere in the world are divided and dejected.

It is interesting that the Soviet experts in the U.S. embassy in Moscow do not think this invasion was primarily a victory of the Kremlin hard-liners over the Kremlin liberals. They believe most of the leaders in Moscow were alarmed by the East German government's report that the liberal Czech leaders could not or would not control the Czech movement toward individual liberty and expression.

The parallel with the Hungarian rebellion of 1956 is not exact. Hungary was determined to leave the communist security system; Czechoslovakia was not.

The Windy City is going to be a bit windier this week. Post a tornado warning.

Now it's the Democrats' turn.

Tonight they begin performing for the nation's television viewers. And the show is going to be considerably more lively, if not less predictable, than the Republican soft-shoe at Miami Beach.

Instead of watching a carefully staged, expertly directed and orderly presentation of imposed party unity, this one will be more like viewing a combination of all-star razzing and a particularly rowdy Our Gang episode.

Watch carefully — there may even be a chase scene before it's all over. If you thought the Republican convention lacked decorum . . . tune in tonight.

That was a minuet; this is hard rock.

There ought to be enough floor fights to make the streets look safe again. Democrats in convention are always a dangerous lot. But this year, the convention is so torn by emotional issues — like a war and racism and the very survival of democratic (small d) processes — that the usual tensions are long since stretched taut, nearing the breaking point.

The difference between Miami Beach and Chicago shows up rather well within Nebraska's delegations.

Whereas the Republican delegation was all gift-wrapped, tied with a bow and held patiently for delivery to Richard Nixon upon demand, this Democratic delegation belongs to no one.

The delegates caucus this morning in the Champaign Room at the Knickerbocker not far from Lake Michigan and the Lake Shore Drive speedway.

A hefty stone's throw away down at the Hyatt House is Lester Maddox, noted great leader from Dixie who wishes to extend the bounds of his happy plantation. Other more plausible presidential candidates cannot be so easily reached.

Pre-convention guesses that two-thirds of Nebraska's delegates are headed toward Hubert Humphrey's crowded bandwagon may be confirmed at the caucus this morning.

Rush Street's noisy clubs are just around the corner for those who need solace following the meeting.

But this appears to be a particularly serious bunch of delegates. They are not like some of the usual big names who go to national conventions, partly as an avocation, partly for an exciting vacation.

This delegation is full of relatively unknown names. A good many of its members really can't afford the expense. But they urgently want to participate in the decisions of this tense week.

These are delegates who, for the most part, ran for election uncommitted and won publicly pledged to support Robert Kennedy.

And, in the process, they took the party away from state Democratic officials — at least for the duration of the convention.

These delegates are unusually young (ten in their twenties, as previously noted, and 14 of them 35 or under), and they are likely to be a fiercely independent lot. Their candidate is gone, and whom they support now will be their second choice.

There aren't likely to be any unanimous votes for anything at their caucus this morning. They aren't going to be marching in a column of two's for any man.

They're going to divide on Humphrey and McCarthy (three are legally committed to him) and McGovern, on Vietnam and the platform, and perhaps on rules and credentials. Just like the full convention, they are going to have a few scuffles.

And, when it's all over, perhaps some of them may even walk out on the whole affair, splintering the party into little jagged pieces. The compromise of Spiro Agnew will not adjourn this convention on a tidy note of party unity.

No happy endings this week.

But the TV fare should be considerably headier. Unless you prefer chess to football, or butterballs to highballs.

Just as the nation is deeply divided over Vietnam, so will be this convention. Just as racism tears the nation apart, so will it rip this convention.

Republicans met in the opulent splendor of Miami Beach and agreed on everything while sirens wailed and smoke curled up from the black ghetto in North Miami across the waterway.

Democrats meet this week in tense, turbulent, troubled Chicago, in the midst of one of the nation's largest black ghettos, in the face of possible violence and urban warfare, and they will divide as the country is divided.

For the television viewer, the contrast may be extreme . . . almost as extreme as the difference between Miami Beach and the South Side.

One swings, and the other throbs.

Brief Guide To Democratic Party

WASHINGTON — A brief guide to the Democratic Party for people who may turn on their television sets next week and conclude that this time "Dark Shadows" has gone too far:

Geography — The Democratic Party is a vast body of confusion sprawling between the Bay of Disorder and the dreaded Chaotic Peaks. It is bounded on the north by the United Auto Workers and on the South by the Ku Klux Klan. From its great central plain, the lush greenbacked Valley of Deficit, blows the balmy airocco, a soothing wind useful for inflating balloons and hopes, but intoxicating if inhaled without a grain of salt.

History — The Democratic Party was born in 1932. It gave the country four deals.

These were (a) the New Deal; (b) the Fair Deal, which was the New Deal with hardened arteries; (c) the New Frontier, which was the New Deal with a face lift, and (d) the Great Society, which was the New Deal with hardened arteries, a fallen face lift and a Vietnamese accent. This history explains why Eugene McCarthy is running for the Democratic presidential nomination on the slogan: "The only thing we have to fear is another new deal."

Principle — The Democratic Party is a party of principle. It will sacrifice anybody to remain the principal party of the United States. In 1948 it tried to sacrifice its own president, Harry S. Truman, but Truman had a secret weapon — Thomas E. Dewey.

The Democratic Credo — The record speaks with explicit boldness about where the Democratic Party stands. Democrats believe in war (President Johnson), in peace (Eugene McCarthy) and in fudging the issue (Vice President Humphrey). They stand for racial equality (Senator Hart) and white supremacy (Senator Eastland). They are for conservatism (Governor Connally), for liberalism (Arthur Schlesinger), and for Republicanism (Gov. John Bell Williams). They are for the common man (William Jennings Bryan), the forgotten man (Franklin Roosevelt), the businessman (Senator Smathers), the laboring man (George Meany), the fat cat (the President's Club, admission $5,000) and Texas (the Congressional Appropriations Committee).

Philosophy — As befits a party of such diverse appeal and long tradition, the Democrats have a large canon of philosophical thought to draw upon in times of crisis. As the foregoing credo might suggest, one of their favorites is: "Don't spit in the soup; everybody's got to eat."

Hobbies — The Democratic Party's favorite hobbies are winning, Texas and exhaustion.

The Democratic Record — For 28 of the last 36 years, Democrats have held the presidency. For 34 of the last 36 years, Democrats have run the Congress. Their 1968 campaign will rest on the argument that their record establishes them as the only party that can save the country from the disaster to which it has been brought by the mistakes of the last 36 years.

Commission Develops Plans To Build Nuclear Complexes

Washington (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission is developing plans for huge nuclear complexes which would each give employment to 100,000 persons and provide food for five million people, AEC Chairman Glenn T. Seaborg disclosed Sunday.

A "modest type" of such a complex could be built now, he said, "using reactors of the type that are already under construction."

Seaborg defined the "nuclear" as "a giant agro-industrial complex built around nuclear reactors and using advanced agricultural and industrial technologies."

100,000 People

For $1 billion, he said, "a nuxep could be built to sustain 100,000 farmers, laborers and their families. The same nuxep would feed five million others and export fertilizer to grow food for 50 million other people."

The complexes would generate their own electricity and pump oceans for unlimited quantities of water for irrigation and industrial uses, he explained.

The AEC chairman told of the plan in a copyrighted interview in the magazine U.S. News and World Report.

Queen Asks Improved Security For Charles

London (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II has appealed to Scotland Yard for extra guards for her son, Prince Charles, against Welsh extremists, reliable sources said Sunday.

The 18-year-old heir to the British throne will be invested as Prince of Wales at Caernarvon Castle next year. Underground extremists demanding home rule for Wales have threatened to disrupt the rites with violence.

The queen told Prime Minister Harold Wilson about her fears "for my son's safety," Norman Lucas, Sunday Mirror crime correspondent reported.

Wilson told the Home Office — which runs Britain's police forces — to provide the prince a security guard even stronger than the Secret Service protection around President Johnson.

It is understood that a hand-picked team will guard Charles around the clock while he attends Welsh language and culture courses at Wales Aberystwyth University prior to the July investiture, as well as a massive security force at the ceremony itself.

Nebraska Guard Back From Camp

Nebraska Army National Guard units returned Sunday from two weeks of training at Camp Ripley, Minn.

Elements of the 67th Infantry Brigade (Mechanized) from Omaha, Lincoln, Fremont, Wahoo, Crete, York, Norfolk, Wahoo and other Nebraska communities had been at camp.

ROGER BARRETT

Jane Russell, 47, Marries Actor Roger Barrett, 47

Beverly Hills, Calif. (AP) — Jane Russell was married Sunday to actor Roger Barrett, whom she met last June. Each is 47.

Miss Russell was divorced July 30 from former football star Bob Waterfield. They were married in 1943.

The actress adopted daughter, Tracy, 17, was bridesmaid. Two other adopted children, Thomas, 18, and Robert, 12, witnessed the ceremony in Community Presbyterian Church.

The actress and Barrett met in Niles, Mich., where they appeared in a play. She said they probably would spend much of their time in Chicago, where he makes television commercials.

The ceremony was conducted by Dr. Bernard MacDougall Loomer, professor of philosophy of religion at the Berkeley, Calif., Baptist Divinity School.

Shots Traded By Israelis, Jordanians

Tel Aviv (AP) — Jordanian and Israeli troops exchanged tank, artillery, mortar and small-arms fire across the Jordan River in a 12-hour battle Sunday along a 20-mile front.

Each side accused the other of firing first.

An Israeli spokesman said four Israeli soldiers and four civilians, one a woman, were wounded. He claimed an Israeli school was among buildings hit by Jordanian shells which rained on kibbutz Ashdot Ya'Acov.

In Amman, a Jordanian spokesman said three Jordanian soldiers were wounded slightly and a school building was destroyed and four houses and a mosque damaged. The spokesman also said the American-financed East Ghor canal project in the Wakkas area was damaged. He said no civilians were killed.

It was the second day of sharp fighting along the Jordan River.

Havelock Reunion Lauds Playwright

The 10th annual Havelock community reunion Sunday afternoon drew about 70 persons who have lived, worked or attended school in the area.

A paper was presented by Mrs. Wilma Heffebower in an effort to install Broadway Fred Ballard, a former Havelock resident, in the Nebraska Hall of Fame.

Defector Says He Warned Dubcek

New York Times Service

New York — A Czechoslovak general who defected in February while suspected of having tried to organize a coup to restore former Communist Party chief Antonin Novotny, said here Sunday he had fled after vainly trying to warn liberal leader Alexander Dubcek of Soviet Pressure on the armed forces.

The flight of Gen. Jan Sejna to Italy, and then to the United States, where he received asylum, caused a major scandal that discredited the pro-Novotny forces.

Sejna denied Sunday that he had attempted a coup or that he was a conservative. On the contrary, he claimed that the same men responsible for linking him to the alleged coup were conservatives pretending to support Dubcek, but in fact plotting to replace him.

Names Kolder

Sejna said one of these plotters was Drahomir Kolder, a presidium member who assisted Dubcek in getting rid of the Novotny group.

but later turned against him for making too many liberal concessions. Kolder was one of the troika who emerged as pro-Soviet leaders after last week's invasion of Czechoslovakia.

He also named two top military men, Defense Minister Gen. Martin Dzur, and Gen. Vaclav Prchlik who, at the time, was the party official responsible for state security services. Both generals, he said, headed a military faction that in January sought to replace Novotny with Kolder or one of his associates, instead of with Dubcek.

With Sejna during the interview were his 19-year-old son Jan, and Evzenie Musilova, a pretty 23-year-old woman whom the general introduced as his son's fiancée.

Fled With Him

Both had accompanied him when he fled Czechoslovakia in his car and drove through Hungary, Yugoslavia and Italy, where U.S. officials arranged for him to fly to this country.

The general denied that he had brought any military documents with him. Asked if he had shared his extensive knowledge of his country's military arrangements with U.S. officials, he replied that he "had not been forced to discuss military matters."

He said he had discussed political matters extensively with a number of new friends here who were "political scientists."

One day, sitting under The Big Tree, Pooh Bear said to Owl, "I dreamed you and Piglet and Rabbit and Kanga and Roo wanted me to be President. So, I think I'll be a President." Owl, from atop the Big Tree, said, "The customary procedure in such cases is to Run for President to get your friends and all the Boys and Girls to campaign for you." Hearing this, Pooh started to run as fast as he could, and remembering his Honey Jar at Home, ran a little faster. Boys and Girls, you can help Pooh... Wear Pooh Fashions for Back-To-School.

Late Summer Weddings For This Bevy Of Brides

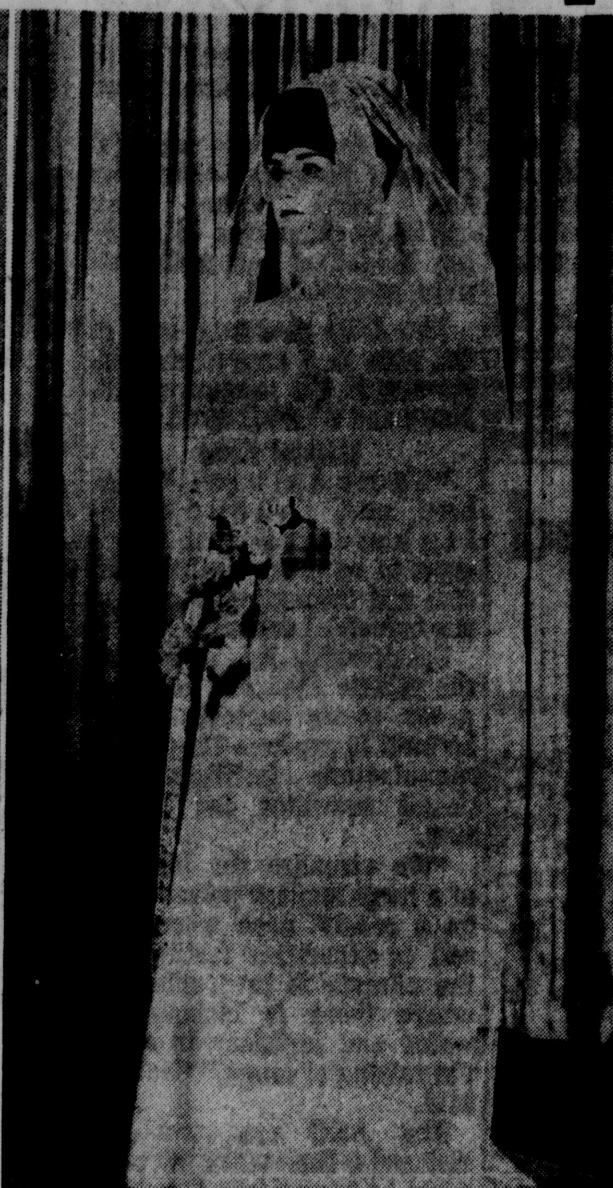

MRS. MARSHALL ABRAHAMS

MRS. ROBERT McCLELLAND

MRS. JACK NEMEC

MRS. BRUCE DOUTHIT

MRS. JOHN EDWIN DAVIS

At a 7 o'clock ceremony, solemnized at St. Peter's Episcopal Church in Neligh, the marriage of Miss Susan Ann Kryger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph S. Kryger of Neligh, to Ron L. Hudson, son of Mrs. Esther Hudson of Lincoln, took place on Sunday evening, Aug. 26. The Rev. Gary R. Young of Bassett read the lines of the service, and Miss Barbara White played the wedding music. Rick Huffman was the vocal soloist.

The attendants, Miss Sandy Rundquist of Royal, the maid of honor; and bridesmaids Miss Vicki Dorman of Geneva, and Miss Lora Damme of Talmage, were identically costumed in pastel pink chiffon over matching taffeta, designed in the Empire silhouette mode. They wore head circlets of fresh pink glamelias and each carried a single pink glamelia.

Loren Stutheit of Lincoln served as best man, and seating the guests were Terry Hudson of Lincoln, and Steven Kryger.

The bride appeared in a gown of white silk organza and Alencon lace. The lace formed an overlay and fashioned the long sleeves of the Empire bodice designed with a crescent neckline contoured the seed pearls. The lace was repeated in applique motifs on the A-line skirt, completed with rows of scallops at the hem line, and to ornament the detachable Watteau train which extended into chapel length. Lace medallions and tulle petals, dotted with pearls and crystals, held in place her bouffant veil.

Mr. Hudson and his bride will reside in Kearney.

The bride is a former coed at the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority. Mr. Hudson also attended the University of Nebraska, and will continue his studies at Kearney State College.

The wedding of Miss Lita Annette Goodman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Goodman, and Marshall Abrahams, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Abrahams of Omaha, took place at a late afternoon ceremony on Sunday, Aug. 25, at Tifereth Israel Synagogue. The 5:30 o'clock service was solemnized by Rabbi Morton Waldman, Cantor Nathan Levinson, and Rabbi Rubin H. Bendelstein of Bayonne, N.J., uncle of the bride. Roger Ellsworth played the wedding music, and Miss Nancy Arenson of Omaha was the vocal soloist.

Appearing in floor length, A-line costumes in the pastel blue tone, the attendants were Miss Lea Goodman of Phoenix, Ariz., the maid of honor, and bridesmaids Miss Susie Goodman, also of Phoenix; Miss Cheryl Weiss, Miss Janet Trachtenbarg, both of Omaha, and Miss Joyce Davidson. Harlan Abrahams of Omaha, served his brother as best man, and the ushers were Harold Boryd of Des Moines, Iowa; Paul Rosen, Barry Kricsfeld, both of Omaha, and Avrom Goodman, brother of the bride.

The bride chose a gown of satin peau and Alencon lace for her wedding. The long-sleeved, sculptured bodice, designed with a jewel neckline, was patterned with pearl-embroidered lace, and the lace and pearl motif was repeated on the long, A-line skirt and also banded the wide, chapel train. A bandeau of seed pearls held in place her tulle veil, and she carried a white Bible ornamented with orchids.

Upon their return from a honeymoon trip to the Catskill mountains, Mr. Abrahams and his bride will reside in the Galaxie Garden apartments, Apt. 42.

The bride is a senior in Teachers College at the University of Nebraska where Mr. Abrahams is a senior in the College of Business Administration.

Altar arrangements of yellow chrysanthemums and white daisies formed the background for the marriage of Miss Lorna Louise Stephen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer E. Stephen, to John Edwin Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Darrell A. Davis, which took place on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 25, at the Havelock Methodist Church. The 3 o'clock ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Albert Gray, and Ellis Jeffery played the wedding music. Renee Smith of Bertrand was the vocal soloist.

Dotted swiss over taffeta in the maize tone fashioned the alike, floorlength frocks of the attendants who were Miss Martha Davis, the maid of honor, and bridesmaids Mrs. Pamela McKeen and Miss Teresa Davis. With their costumes they carried circular bouquets of yellow and white daisies.

Scott Davis of Bertrand served as best man, and the groomsmen and ushers included Gerry Muncy, James Roberts, Rocky Davis of Bertrand, Richard Henderson and Kenneth Rownd.

For her wedding the bride chose a gown of white silk crepe and Venetian lace. The mini bodice, with its crescent neckline, was of the lace which also fashioned the brief sleeves. The silk crepe shaft skirt touched the floor and was given back interest by a Watteau train which extended from the shoulders into cotillion length. Her tiered veil was held in place with a calot of white roses and lilies of the valley, and she carried a bouquet of yellow roses and white daisies.

After Sept. 1, Mr. Davis and his bride will reside at 1929 Prospect St.

Mr. Davis is attending the University of Nebraska where he is majoring in chemical engineering.

Coeds Chose Sunday For Weddings

For the wedding of Miss Colleen Hudnall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Averill Hudnall of Imperial, and Robert McClelland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. McClelland of Des Moines, Iowa., which took place on Sunday evening, Aug. 25, the chancel of the United Methodist Church in Imperial was appointed with arrangements of white gladioli and carnations in the turquoise shade. The Rev. Richard Downs read the lines of the 7 o'clock ceremony, and the wedding music was played by Miss Marie Rosenow who also accompanied the trumpeter, James Bragg; the violinist, Miss Barbara Wheeler and the vocal soloist, Gerald Wheeler.

Miss Penny Hudnall, the maid of honor, and Miss Kay McClelland of Des Moines, the bridesmaid, wore alike, princess-mode frocks of turquoise satin with which they carried bouquets of white roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

David Dahlke of Lincoln served as best man, and the ushers were Vern Vermeer of Wood River, and William Deahl of Denver.

The bride's semi-fitted A-line gown was fashioned of satin and lace. Lace created the deep yoke that slipped into long, slender sleeves and was repeated to form the cotillion length train. Her shoulder-length veil was held to the head by a crown of pearls and crystals and she carried a bouquet of white orchids and stephanotis.

The bride is a student at Nebraska Wesleyan University where she is a member of Kappa Delta Pi, education honorary. Mr. McClelland is a graduate student at the University of Nebraska and is a member of Sigma Pi Sigma, physics honorary.

At a 2 o'clock service on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 25, the marriage of Miss Nancy Holm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Holm, to Jack Nemecek, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Nemecek of DuBois, took place at the First United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Ted Hempel, the matron of honor, bridesmatron Mrs. Edward Banning of Golden, Colo., both sisters of the bride and bridesmaid Miss Nancy Anderson of Johnstown, appeared in alike, floorlength frocks of white pique.

Terry Tegtmeier of Bern, Kan., served as best man, and the groomsmen and ushers included Dan Parks of Pawnee City; Dwaine Clothar of Dawson; Robert Schnacht of Gretna; Ron Weher of Wakefield; Edward Rothje of Phillips; Edward Banning of Golden, Colo., and Ted Hempel.

The gown chosen by the bride was fashioned of silk organza over taffeta. The Empire bodice, heavily applique with Alencon lace and designed with a crescent neckline and elbow-length sleeves, was smoothly sculptured above the long, A-line skirt. The aisle wide train, caught at the shoulders beneath a back semi-bertha of lace was ornamented with lace applique and extended into cotillion length. A jeweled crown held in place her bouffant veil, and she carried a cluster of white roses on a Bible.

The bride will be a junior this year at the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Kappa Delta sorority, and of Alpha Lambda Delta and Phi Upsilon Omicron honoraries. Mr. Nemecek also will be a junior at the University of Nebraska and is a member of Alpha Gamma Sigma and Alpha Tau Alpha.

Arrangements of caladium leaves with white gladioli and pink carnations, and lighted cathedral candles appointed the chancel of the chapel at the Westminster Presbyterian Church where the wedding of Miss Carolyn Leigh (C. Leigh) Purvis, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Donald F. Purvis, and Warren W. Gerber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gerber of Odessa, Minn., took place on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 25. Dr. Ben Lane solemnized the 2 o'clock ceremony.

Miss Lynn Purvis, as her sister's maid of honor and only attendant was frocked in pink crepe. The fitted bodice touched with a beaded motif was designed with a cowl neckline, and beneath the slender, sashed waist the skirt was daytime length.

Gene Schnueser of St. Paul, Minn., served as best man, and Rick Leigh, brother of the bride, and Al Enrich, of St. Louis, Mo.

For her wedding the bride chose a suit of silk surrah in the ivory tone with which she wore a matching hat. She carried an orchid, encircled with stephanotis, on an heirloom Bible.

On Aug. 31, Mr. Gerber and his bride will go to Chimbote, Peru, S.A., where the bridegroom is the regional representative of the Peace Corps.

The bride is a graduate of Colorado State University at Ft. Collins, Colo., where she is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. She has just received her Master's degree in Public Health from the School of Public Health at the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor. Preceding work towards her Master's degree she served for two years as a volunteer in the Peace Corps and was assigned to Nigeria, West Africa. Mr. Gerber is a graduate of the University of Minnesota where he is a member of Farm House fraternity. He served a tour of duty in El Salvador, Central America, as a Peace Corps volunteer.

There's Fun News In Suburbia Ceremony At The Cathedral

Well today it is back to the television set and thus back to ye old convention. This one seems to be pretty cut and dried, too, but there always is the election in November to liven things up. By the way, have you read the latest poll? This one is in "Ladies' Home Journal" and has to do with why women vote and specifically what they like and dislike in a presidential candidate.

The "Journal's" findings included the following facts — American women do not deem it essential that a presidential aspirant be married. Looks may be only skin-deep, but more than half of those women questioned said they thought women would hesitate to vote for a man if he were "physically unattractive" or dressed in "bad taste". Also women don't seem to trust candidates over 60.

Six out of 10 think the "one-issue candidate" would lose women's votes, and more than half don't care if a candidate is making his second try for the presidency. But also six out of 10 women think a woman presidential candidate would be in trouble with members of her own sex!

Well, enough politicking from us for that's all you will hear on the tube for the next week and probably until November.

Speaking of conventions, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miller of Eastmont recently returned from attending one — but not one of the political nature. The Eastmont residents traveled to Omaha a week ago to take part in the two-day Intermediate Credit Bank (FDIC) seminar.

There are more newcomers to Wellington Greens, that elegant collage of condominiums to the east, which is growing by leaps and bounds. The newest residents in Canterbury Court on Old Post Road are Mrs. Marce Walter and her daughter Linda and son Chuck, who have just moved from Indian Village. Miss Walter will be a freshman at the University of Nebraska this fall, while her brother will attend Lincoln Southeast for his senior year in high school.

The marriage of Miss Kathy Ann Pattison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Pattison, to Bruce M. Douthit, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Douthit of Ord, was solemnized at an 11 o'clock ceremony at the Cathedral of the Risen Christ on Saturday morning, Aug. 24. Msgr. Clarence J. Crowley read the lines of the service, and Kenneth Ford played the wedding music. Miss Margaret Ann Johnson was the vocal soloist.

Pink dotted swiss was chosen for the long-skirted Empire costumes of the attendants, including Miss Sharon Letherby, the maid of honor; bridesmatron Mrs. Gary Graham, sister of the bridegroom, and bridesmaid Miss Mary Pattison, sister of the bride. Their flowers were white chrysanthemums.

Gary Graham served as best man, and seating the guests were Tom Streuf of Crete, and Mark Cunningham.

The bride appeared in a gown of white pique designed in the Empire mode. Lace, which patterned the bodice yoke and the blie sleeves, was repeated on the full length veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Mr. Douthit and his bride will reside at 1341 E St.

The bride is attending the University of Nebraska Teachers College and Mr. Douthit, who is a graduate of Regis College in Denver, is a graduate student in mathematics at the University of Nebraska.

Saturday was a big day. There was a football game — the Shrine game — one of many played each year throughout the nation to raise money for Children's hospitals— There was a parade, of course, and in the convertibles were the Shrine dignitaries, including the Imperial Potentate, the Imperial Recorder, and numerous Potentates of Shrine Temples throughout Nebraska.

Our interest, however, was in the distaff side which included Mrs. Chester Hogan of Tacoma, Wash., wife of the Imperial Potentate; Mrs. George Saunders of Chicago whose husband is Imperial Recorder, and the wives of the Potentates of Nebraska Temples — Mrs. Edgar Kessler of Omaha, for instance — Mrs. Donovan Butler of Hastings — and the wife of Lincoln's own Sesostri Temple Potentate, Mrs. Robert McCracken.

This group stood on the curb with the thousands of other women, men and children, to watch their husbands ride by — Then it was back to Hotel Cornhusker for a luncheon — then to the game — then back to the Cornhusker for other festivities.

Entertain Guests

Six former Lincoln residents and their families are currently visiting friends and relatives in the city. The guests at the home of Mrs. Martha Cline are her sons and daughters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Donn Cline and their family of Basking Ridge, N.J.; and Mr. and Mrs. James Cline and their children of Colorado Springs, Colo. Mr. and Mrs. Donn Cline are both graduates of Nebraska Wesleyan, while both Mr. and Mrs. James Cline attended the University of Nebraska.

Mr. Smith's aunt, Mrs. Cline. Mr. and Mrs. Smith also are graduates of Nebraska Wesleyan.

On Saturday evening, all of the visitors were honored at a picnic which will be attended by friends and family members.

BRIDGE: Bridge Olympiad

The Third World Bridge Olympiad was played June 7th to 21st in Deauville, France. Thirty-three nations participated.

Italy won the open team championship, once again asserting its supremacy in the world of bridge. The Italians have now won eleven world championships in their last twelve attempts.

The United States finished second, Canada third, and Holland fourth.

Each of the 33 countries in the open championship played a match of 20 deals against every other country during the qualifying round of the event. After twelve days of play, the four teams above, having accumulated the most victory points in the 32 matches they each played, became eligible to participate in the semifinal round of the tournament.

Expressed in victory points, the outcome of the round robin was: Italy, 474; U.S.A., 473; Holland, 460; Canada, 451; Australia, 444; Switzerland, 434; Belgium, 422; France, 415; Sweden, 406; Iceland, 382; Venezuela, 365; Austria, 352; Israel, 323; Finland, 314; Spain, 313; Argentina, 306; Chile, 301; Jamaica, 295; Thailand, 287; Kenya, 280; Egypt, 276; Denmark, 274; Brazil, 260; Germany, 252; South Africa, 244; Ireland, 244; Philippines, 224; Lebanon, 220; Bermuda, 216; Portugal, 199; Greece, 170; Dutch Antilles, 76; Mexico, 66.

A team winning a match by 30 or more international match points was awarded a 20 to 0 victory point score. Matches won by less than 30 imps yielded fewer victory points, in accordance with a sliding scale.

In the semifinals, Italy defeated Canada 171 imps to 120, while the U.S. team took the measure of Holland by 174 to 142. Italy then defeated the United States in the final round by 172 to 123 to win the championship.

Members of the victorious Italian team were: Walter Avarelli, Giorgio Belladonna, Mimmo D'Alelio, Camillo Pabis Ticci, Pietro Forquet and Benito Garozzo, with Angelo Tracacella as non playing captain.

The United States team was composed of Robert Jordan, Arthur Robinson, Norman Kay, Edgar Kaplan, William Root and Alvin Roth, with Julius Rosenblum as non-playing captain and B. Jay Becker as coach.

The women's Championship, with 19 nations participating, was conducted simultaneously with the open event. Sweden finished first, South Africa second, United States third, Italy fourth.

In all, 17,280 deals were played in the tournament. For the next few weeks, in this space, I will be reporting some of the most dramatic and interesting deals in the Olympiad. Not all these hands will be instructive, since aberrations of mind as well as brilliancies will be included, but they will, I trust, reflect some of the savory flavor of world championship.

ABBY: not a pretty word

DEAR ABBY: My mother was looking through my year book when she started to read some of the stuff the kids wrote in it.

Well, one of my friends, who happens to be a very nice girl, wrote, "Have a bitchin summer." When my mother saw that she flew into a rage and hit the ceiling.

Abby, "bitching" doesn't mean to us kids what it means to the older generation. There is nothing dirty about it. My mother can't believe it, so please, do me a favor and explain that "bitchin" — when used by kids today means, "groovy, neat or cool." Thank you.

NOT BELIEVED
Dear Not: Much as I dislike the word when used by kids to describe the ultimate, it does mean what you say it does. But don't ever use it to describe your mother — no matter how "groovy, neat or cool" you think she is.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to reply to "MOTHER OF SEVEN," who said "the world would be a lot better off if people would learn to love the children they get, rather than take pills to keep from having them."

A person does not have to "learn to love" a wanted child. The "love" is already there. Although some people may develop love for unwanted children, it can never be as natural and free from prejudice. One cannot be taught, forced or shamed into loving.

Poll Probes Humphrey's Strength, Weakness

By LOUIS HARRIS
The public-opinion profile of Vice President Hubert Humphrey reflects the strengths and weaknesses of a career of 20 years in national politics. His strongest appeal is drawn from the 64% of American voters who believe he is a "man who came up the hard way and made a success of politics."

The single most substantial criticism from the route he has taken to seek the Democratic nomination, that he is "too much the choice of machine politicians," cited by an even 50% of the electorate.

Humphrey's experience as Vice President serves him in good stead, with 55% holding the view that "he has learned a lot as Vice President and is qualified to be President." Certainly, had he not been selected for the second spot four years ago, Humphrey probably would not be in the position he is today.

Yet the Vice President has also paid a price for this privilege. Close to half of the American people — 47% — believe that "he has been too close to President Johnson and his policies to be President."

Personal Appeal
In terms of personal appeal, a majority, 54% of the public, agrees that Hubert Humphrey has "a strong, vigorous personality." He is a familiar public figure. Yet 42% add that the Vice President "talks too much."

By combining his liberal past with his close association with Johnson and the Establishment, Humphrey has laid claim to being a "unifying" force in the Democratic Party. By 41% to 28%, the public agrees with that. Perhaps more significant, the rank-and-file Democrats concur even more decisively, by 47% to 23%, just over two to one.

Through most of the two decades he has been on the national scene, Humphrey has been known as a liberal, especially in the area of civil rights. Public reaction to the proposition that Humphrey has been "too liberal, especially on civil rights," is an exact standoff, with 38% agreeing and 38% disagreeing. It is significant that voters in the South go along with this criticism by 49% to 34%.

A carefully drawn cross section of 1,564 voters was asked:

"I want to read you some statements which some people have made about Hubert Humphrey. For each, tell me if you tend to agree or disagree."

LOUIS HARRIS
Opinion Profile

If Humphrey should be nominated this week, how his basic profile might affect key voting groups in the electorate would be an interesting question. The belief that he has "come up the hard way" has particular appeal among union members, Negroes and Catholics, all key elements in any effort to preserve the old Democratic coalition.

Could Be Pivotal
On the other hand, the charge that he has been "too close to President Johnson and should not be President" particularly alienates independents and the college-educated, who could be pivotal in a close election.

Humphrey's experience as Vice President helps him most with suburban voters, where in trial-heat polls he has consistently shown well. By the same token, the charge that he is "too much the choice of machine politicians" has hurt him in the same suburban group.

In the end, if he indeed becomes the Democratic candidate for President, Humphrey will probably be unable to change his profile very much. Things will be different, however, when he is measured against Richard Nixon rather than Sen. Eugene McCarthy.

Both Nixon and Humphrey have suffered in voters' eyes from their familiarity and association with the old policies, in comparison to rivals for this year's nomination. The chemistry of a Nixon-Humphrey confrontation as rival standard-bearers in their own right could well provide the drama in this 1968 campaign.

Now Possible To Shrink Painful Hemorrhoids
And Promptly Stop The Itching, Relieve Pain In Most Cases.

ADVERTISEMENT

New York, N. Y. (Special): A scientific research institute has discovered a medication which has the ability in most cases — to actually shrink hemorrhoids. In case after case, the sufferer first notices prompt relief from the itching, burning and pain. Then this medication starts right in to gently reduce the swelling of inflamed, irritated hemorrhoids.

Tests conducted on hundreds of patients by leading doctors in New York City, in Washington, D.C. and at a Midwest Medical Center proved this so.

And it was all accomplished without narcotics or stinging astringents of any kind. The secret is Preparation H — an exclusive formula for the treatment of hemorrhoids. There is no other formula like it! In addition to actually shrinking piles and relieving the painful distress — Preparation H lubricates, makes bowel movements less painful and soothes the irritated tissues. It also helps prevent further infection. Preparation H comes in ointment or suppository form. No prescription is needed.

Girl Swimmers Set 3 Records

... OLYMPIC TRIALS

Los Angeles (AP) — Three more world records fell Sunday in the second day of the U.S. women's Olympic swimming trials — to Debbie Meyer in the 400-meter freestyle, Catie Ball in the 100-meter breaststroke and Claudia Kolb in the 200-meter individual medley.

Debbie, who celebrated her 16th birthday 10 days ago, started the assault in the 400 with 4:24.5 for her second world record performance in two days.

Miss Ball, also 16, from Jacksonville, Fla., followed with 1:14.2 in the breaststroke, and Miss Kolb, 18, from Santa Clara, Calif., Swim Club, closed out the day in the 200 medley in 2:23.5. It was Miss Kolb's second world effort in the two days. She won the 400 medly Saturday.

The brown-eyed Miss Ball, who swims for the Jacksonville Jets, broke her own record of 1:14.6, set at Philadelphia on Aug. 19, 1967.

Catie also owns the world 200-meter breast stroke record.

Miss Kolb, who attends Santa Clara University and was a silver medal winner in the 1964 Tokyo Olympics, lowered her own world mark of 2:25.0. She shares it with Sue Petersen of Sacramento, Calif.

In the competition for places on the U.S. team bound for the Mexico City Olympics, Sharon Wichman of Fort Wayne, Ind., with 1:15.5, joined Miss Ball for the two places open in the breast stroke.

Miss Pedersen, with 2:25.4, and Jan Henne, Santa Clara SC, 2:25.5, joined Miss Kolb for the three medley berths.

91 Huskers Report For Photo Day

A 91-man Nebraska football squad reported to members of the press, radio and TV corps Sunday for the annual NU Photo Day, the signal that the opening of fall football camp is only one day away.

Those 91 plus one or two more will report today to the Husker coaching staff for the start of two-a-day drills at 9 a.m. and 3:30 p.m.

Three players off the 94-man roster failed to show up Sunday, defensive safety Marlin Terwilliger, offensive left tackle George Schenk and offensive right halfback Bill Bomberger.

Head coach Bob Devaney said he expected Terwilliger to be on hand for the start of drills this morning, but the return of Bomberger was questionable. Schenk is not expected.

The first three days of practice will be conducted without the gridders wearing pads under a new rule of the NCAA. The Huskers will have three weeks to get ready for the opener with Wyoming at Memorial Stadium.

Norway's Olympic Men To Call For A Boycott

Oslo, Norway (AP) — Norway's Olympic committee and the executive committee of the Norwegian Sports Federation scheduled separate meetings for Monday with the two chairmen coming out in favor of a boycott of the five occupation powers in Czechoslovakia.

"In view of the situation in Czechoslovakia today, it seems to me unthinkable that Norway should be represented in Mexico City if the Soviet Union, Poland, East Germany, Hungary and Bulgaria are admitted," said Joergen Jahre, chairman of Norway's Olympic committee.

He added that the picture could change in good time before the Olympics and any boycott decision could be subject to review later.

Torfinn Bentzen, chairman of the sports federation, said he personally favors calling off Norway's participation in the Games.

The Olympic committee meeting was called originally to review the performances of athletes not yet qualified for the Games, but Jahre said that the members also would discuss the question of Norway's participation in view of the occupation of Czechoslovakia.

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Writer

Nebraska sophomore end Guy Ingles has no feud with the press, but he figures it's the writer's fault that people keep thinking of him as a football midget.

"I don't think about my size (lack of it)," Ingles observed while standing in the north end zone during photo day for the Husker gridders. "It's not that big a deal."

"I'm not being critical of the press, but you guys are the ones who are always playing up my size (5-10 and 160 pounds). "But it's not that important."

"If you get smacked by seven or eight guys, it doesn't make much difference how big you are."

To defenders trying to outwrestle him for a football, he seems much larger than that 5-10 frame with the little Omahan generally hanging onto anything he can touch in the way of a forward pass.

"I have unusually big hands," he explains in analyzing his pass catching success. "I think being able to catch a football is a natural thing and you either can do it or you can't."

"It's just like Rex (Lowe) there. He has big hands and he's a good pass catcher. It came naturally for him."

While the native ability may have been natural, Ingles has spent many hours trying to aid that natural talent.

"I lifted weights during the summer because I thought I needed more strength," he pointed out. "I weigh about 160 pounds now and I only weighed 150 when I began the weight training program."

The NU end also spent some time squeezing a small rubber ball and doing wrist curls.

"I found that in college I needed more strength in my hands because they throw the ball harder than they do in high school," he explained.

Adding to the idea that his lack of size is farthest from his mind is his explanation that he never turned ed to a small football player like Tommy McDonald for an idol.

"I never really had an idol," he offers. "But I used to think Ray Berry was pretty great."

Ingles had offers from other schools, but when he thinks back to his high school graduation, there was little doubt as to where he was going to college.

"When you really get down to it, there wasn't much doubt as to where I would go," he notes. "If a high school player is capable of getting offers to attend a college on scholarship, he can't be wrong in going to his homestate school."

"And if you can make a help for yourself, it can help you become established when you graduate."

When Ingles decided to come to Nebraska, the Huskers were riding a crest of success. But last year's drop to 6-4 did not disappoint the little end.

"They just hit a dry spell," Ingles said in referring to last season. "That happens in football and there wasn't that much difference between last season and the previous ones."

"There was just a small difference between victory and defeat in some of those games and I think we're capable of doing as much as some of those good teams in the past."

ORIOLES GAIN GROUND

Colavito Peps Yankee Wins

... DETROIT DUMPED

By Associated Press

The Baltimore Orioles opened another charge at American League leading Detroit by out-lasting Boston 3-2 in 18 innings Sunday while the Tigers were losing twice to the New York Yankees, 6-5 and 5-4.

Brooks Robinson, who scored the tying run in the eighth on Curt Blefary's sacrifice fly, singled in Baltimore's winning run after Boog Powell doubled with two out, and the Orioles pulled within five games of the Tigers.

The Yankees, sweeping a four-game set from Detroit, rallied from a 5-1 deficit in the first game with five runs in the sixth inning. Bill Robinson hit a three-run homer and Bobby Cox followed with a solo blast before Jake Gibbs singled home Rocky Colavito with the winning run.

Colavito, a slugging outfielder for 13 seasons, pitched 2-3 shutout innings — only the second time he has pitched in the majors — for the victory. He also homered in the second game while playing the outfield and Charley Smith singled in the two decisive runs in the fourth inning.

Elsewhere in the AL, Tim Cullen's pinch triple drove in three runs to break a tie, giving Washington a 10-9 triumph over Cleveland, and Minnesota took advantage of four errors to beat the Chicago White Sox 10-2. George Brur 's six-hitter and three runs batted in by Bobby Knoop sent California past Oakland 5-1.

Jose Cardenal of Cleveland and Ken McMullen of Washington each hit two homers and Tony Horton of the Indians one.

St. Louis, the National League runaway leader, took advantage of four Pittsburgh errors for three runs and Joe Hoerner's relief of Nelson Briles for a 4-2 victory over the Pirates.

Briles, 17-8, went 7 1-3 innings before Hoerner got him out of a bases loaded, one out jam.

Tom Seaver stopped Cincinnati's hot bats with a six-hitter that boosted the New York Mets to a 7-1 decision over the Reds. Ed Kranepool and Art Shamsky homered for the Mets.

Ferguson Jenkins' four-hitter carried the Chicago Cubs past Houston 2-0 as Larry Dierker lost for the first time in two months and the Astros' had their six-game winning streak ended.

Paul Popovich's sacrifice fly in the ninth inning lifted Los Angeles to a 5-4 victory over San Francisco and Juan Marichal, now 23-6.

Johnny Callison had a homer and two singles and drove in two runs and Larry Jackson yielded only five hits as Philadelphia downed Atlanta 4-1 despite Hank Aaron's 24th homer.

Murphy and Harris finished the four-day, 72-hole tournament deadlocked at 12-under-par 276.

The two former U.S. Amateur champions, neither one ever a winner on the pro golf tour, started their playoff on the par 4, 15th hole where each matched regulation.

They both had pars on the 145-yard 16th, driving to the green and two-putting from about 20 feet.

On the 485-yard 17th, the 24-year-old Murphy, who learned his golf at the University of Florida, sent his drive straight down the middle of the fairway.

Harris, 26, a graduate of Oklahoma State University, hit his tee shot into a fairway bunker on the right.

With one foot in the trap and one foot in the rough, the 6-foot-3 Harris blasted out 10 to 15 feet short of the green but in high grass, Murphy pulled his second shot to the left into a bunker at the green.

Harris chipped out eight feet past the pin while Murphy came out of the bunker about 15 feet from the cup. The cigar-chewing Floridian putted first and rolled in for a birdie 4.

Harris missed his shorter putt and it was all over. Murphy, who is 30th on the

Murphy Wins Sudden Death For 'Philly Classic' Check

... OSU'S HARRIS FALTERS ON NO. 3

Philadelphia (AP) Husky Bob Murphy rolled in a 15-foot putt on the third hole of a sudden-death playoff against Oklahoman Labron Harris to win the $100,000 Philadelphia Golf Classic Sunday at the Whitemarsh Valley Country Club.

Murphy and Harris finished the four-day, 72-hole tournament deadlocked at 12-under-par 276.

They both had pars on the 145-yard 16th, driving to the green and two-putting from about 20 feet.

On the 485-yard 17th, the 24-year-old Murphy, who learned his golf at the University of Florida, sent his drive straight down the middle of the fairway.

Harris, 26, a graduate of Oklahoma State University, hit his tee shot into a fairway bunker on the right.

With one foot in the trap and one foot in the rough, the 6-foot-3 Harris blasted out 10 to 15 feet short of the green but in high grass, Murphy pulled his second shot to the left into a bunker at the green.

Harris chipped out eight feet past the pin while Murphy came out of the bunker about 15 feet from the cup. The cigar-chewing Floridian putted first and rolled in for a birdie 4.

Harris missed his shorter putt and it was all over. Murphy, who is 30th on the money-winning list, added the $20,000 first prize to his total of $44,242 with his extra-hole victory.

Harris, a four regular since 1964, shot a final 34-34 — 68 over the 6,708-yard course.

Murphy, who started the final round one stroke ahead of the field and fell five strokes behind after nine holes Sunday, fired a final round, two-under-par 38-32 — 70.

This was the second straight emotion-packed week for Murphy, who last Sunday lost the $250,000 Westchester Classic on the final hole after leading through three rounds.

Finishing one stroke behind the top pair was Dudley Wysong, 29-year-old pro from Makaha Valley, Hawaii, who shot a 32-38 — 70 for a final-round total of 277.

Cincy's New Team Shocks Steelers, 19-3

By Associated Press

The expansion Cincinnati Bengals, going along with the American Football League's interleague exhibition victory wave, stunned Pittsburgh of the National League 19-3 Sunday behind rookie Dewey Warren's passes.

In the other Sunday contest, between two NFL clubs, the St. Louis Cardinals scored a safety and a touchdown in the final period for an 18-10 triumph over the New York Giants.

The Bengals, winless in their first three games, ran the AFL's exhibition record this season to 10-5 over the NFL.

Warren, completing 12 of 21 passes for 288 yards, set up three touchdowns with his passes and Cincinnati's defense let th Steelers cross midfield only once on their own.

St. Louis trailed 10-9 when a bad pass from center went over punter Ernie Koy's head in the end zone for a safety. Quarterback Charley Johnson ran nine yards for a touchdown minutes later to wrap up the verdict.

The Green Bay Packers and the Dallas Cowboys staged another slam-bang affair Saturday night with the Packers winning 31-27.

This time it didn't cost the Cowboys — Dallas lost close games for the National Football League title to Green Bay the past two years — but it did save the Packers the embarrassment of losing three straight for the first time since 1959.

The Packers had lost two straight preseason games before Saturday.

Preseason play or not, the NFL Los Angeles Rams got embarrassed, losing 35-13 to the San Diego Chargers of the American League.

In other exhibition games Saturday night, the Minnesota Vikings trampled the Philadelphia Eagles 52-10, the Chicago Bears trounced the Washington Redskins 45-13 and the New Orleans Saints outlasted the Cleveland Browns 40-27 in NFL action and the Kansas City Chiefs upended the Oakland Raiders 31-21 in AFL play. The Packers built up a 31-10 lead, mainly behind veteran backup quarterback Zeke Bratkowski, in the game at Dallas before the Cowboys roared back to make it close.

Green Bay scored first in the nationally televised game when Jim Grabowski scored on a one-yard plunge in the first period. The touchdown was set up by Bart Starr's 52-yard pass to Carroll Dale to the Dallas 16.

After Jerry Kramer kicked a 15-yard field goal, Bratkowski gave the Packers a 17-10 halftime lead with a three-yard run in the second period. A one-yard touchdown run by Donny Anderson and nothing scheduled.

Don Meredith threw a 11-yard touchdown pass to Lance Rentzel and Mike Clark kicked a 16-yard field goal for Dallas in the first half. Craig Morton threw scoring passes of 27 yards to Pete Gent and 10 yards to Dennis Homan in the second half.

John Hadl passed 45 yards to Jacques MacKinnon and 68 yards to Lance Alworth for second-quarter touchdowns and Dennis Partee kicked three field goals in San Diego's surprise victory.

The Rams, unbeaten in exhibition games for two years until last week, have lost two straight.

Mid-Nebraska's Big Race Meet Sponsored by Platte County Agricultural Society.

1956 Gold Medal Disus Winner Flings Toss Of 175; Carol Moseke Second

Walnut, Calif. (P) — Olga Connolly, 36, and mother of four, won the U.S. women's Olympics discus trials Sunday while Wyomia Tyus squared accounts with her sprinting rival Margaret Bailes in the 100.

Mrs. Connolly's winning throw of 175 feet fell just 13 1/2 inches short of her winning effort in the 1965 Games when she represented her native Czechoslovakia.

It was her best of the year, short of the American record 176-10 by Earlene Brown in 1960.

Carol Moseke of the Nebraska Track Club took second place at 166-5. The winner commented that Miss Moseke should be able to meet the qualification standard before the Sept. 17 deadline.

Third place went to Nancy Norberg of Palo Alto, Calif., with a throw of 152-7.

Miss Tyus, Olympic 100 champion in 1964, at Tokyo, sped out of the blocks in her race and beat the 17-year-old Mrs. Bailes handily although clockers caught both at 11.3 seconds. Barbara Ferrell of Los Angeles took third at 11.4.

Thus all three who qualified for the 200 on Saturday won places on the team in a second event. Mrs. Bailes, of Eugene, Ore. won the longer race.

At 23, Miss Tyus was a June graduate of Tennessee State. Although she lost to Mrs. Bailes in the AAU Championship at 100 and won at 200, this time she led the shorter race from start to finish.

Youth was served in the high jump when 16-year-old Sharon Callahan, of the Crown City Track Club of Pasadena, Calif., won at 5-7 1/4. Veteran Eleanor Montgomery of Tennessee State also cleared 5-7 1/4 but with more misses at lower heights. Her collegiate teammate, Estelle Baskerville, was third at 5-6, all three qualified for the Olympic team.

Jarvis Scott of Los Angeles won the 400-meter race at 53.5 followed by Lois Drinkwater, Phoenix, Ariz., 54.0 and 15-year-old Esther Stroy of Washington, D.C., 54.3.

Mrs. Connolly's winning throw was well beyond the Olympic qualifying mark of 170-7 1/4, so far she is the only U.S. woman to qualify in this event.

Discus-1, Olga Connolly, Crown City Track Club, Pasadena, Calif., 175-0. 2, L. Moseke, Nebraska Track Club, 166-5. 3, Nancy Norberg, Palo Alto, Calif., 152-7. 4, Sharon Shepherd, unattached, Cal., 150-6. 5, Helen Thayer, Falcon Track Club, Seattle, 149-11. 6, Linda Langford, Millbrae, Calif., 148-10. 7, Jarvis Scott, LA Mercantiles, 147-10. 8, Sharon Callahan, Crown City Track Club, 147-2. 9, Eleanor Montgomery, Tennessee State, 147-4. 10, Estelle Baskerville, 147-4. 11, Mildred KETTER, Alcorn, Miss., 146-11. 12, Vann Bowtell, Detroit, 146-11. 13, Diane Waters, Frederick, Md., 146-11. 14, Francis Bush, Staten Island, New York, 146-11. 15, Wyomia Tyus, Tennessee State, 145-11. 16, Margaret Bailes, Oregon Track Club, 145-11. 17, Barbara Ferrell, Los Angeles, 145-11. 18, M. KETTER, Alcorn, Miss., 145-11. 19, Iris DK, Tennessee State, 145-11. 20, Maiteline Rander, Tennessee State, 145-11. 21, Jarvis Scott, LA Mercantiles, 145-11. 22, Lois Drinkwater, Phoenix, Ariz., 145-11. 23, Esther Stroy, Sports Int'l TC, Washington D.C., 145-11. 24, Nancy Shafter, Canton, Ohio, 145-11. 25, Mageline Manning, Tennessee State, 145-11. 26, Jane Burnett, Sports Int'l TC, 145-11. 27, J. Lincolmites Take Gals' Canoe Event

By Associated Press
Paddling a fiberglass canoe, Roger Ohnesorg and Ray Bosiljevack of Omaha Sunday teamed up to take first place in the men's division, fiberglass class, of the annual Lewis and Clark Missouri River Canoe Race.

The race began at Omaha and ended at Nebraska City. Ohnesorg and Bosiljevack made the distance in five hours and 37 minutes.

Jerry Whalen and James Warren, whose addresses were not available, topped the aluminum class in the men's division with a time of six hours and 23 minutes.

The women's division was led by Joanne Blazek and Hazel Wright of Lincoln. They went ashore at Plattsmouth after three hours and 10 minutes.

Winners of the Boys 16 and Under division were Robert Bosiljevack and Ken Prossoki of Fullerton, reaching Plattsmouth in 2:50.

Paul and Carol Opocensky of Ralston won the mixed division, reaching Plattsmouth in 2:50.

Jack Flatt Wins Invite

Fremont — Jack Flatt won a sudden-death playoff on the second extra hole from Charles Weir for the Fremont Invitational golf championship here Sunday.

Flatt and Weir, both members of the host Fremont Golf Club, finished the 45-hole routed tie at 7-over-par 184.

Both parred the first extra hole but when Weir, who will be a sophomore at Colorado this fall, took a triple bogey six at the 185-yard second hole, Flatt won with a par 3.

Both started the day four strokes out of the lead with opening-round 75s Saturday putting them four strokes behind Omaha Sam Alexander.

Two Omahans, Dick Dykes and Al Ludwig, tied for third at 185. The championship flight leaders:

- Jack Flatt, Fremont 184
- Charles Weir, Fremont 184
- Flatt won on second extra hole.
- Dick Dykes, Omaha 185
- Al Ludwig, Omaha 185
- Vern Petersen, Cortland 186
- Sam Alexander, Omaha 187
- Scott Willsborough, Omaha 187
- E. B. Lau, Lincoln 188
- Leo Gard, Omaha 189
- Gordon Saffer, Omaha 189
- John O'Neill, Omaha 189

Flight winners:
First flight: Wayne Sinek, Norfolk; second flight: Max Baker, Omaha; third flight: Chuck Jensen, Payson, City; fourth flight: Bill Smith, Norfolk; fifth flight: Jim Gabrielson, Omaha.

Ashe Wears Down Lutz To Win Men's Singles

Brookline, Mass. (P) — U.S. Davis Cup ace Arthur Ashe wore down husky Bob Lutz and crushed the young collegian's upset hopes 4-6, 6-3, 8-10, 6-0, 6-4 Sunday in becoming the first Negro to win the U.S. Men's Singles Tennis Championships.

Ashe, a 25-year-old Army lieutenant stationed at West Point, came back after taking a brief rest while trailing after the third set and became the first American to win the title since 1955.

Lutz, a Southern California

senior who will be 21 Thursday, had put together a string of upsets en route to his show down with Ashe. However, he ran out of gas on Longwood's sun-baked grass court.

Ashe took advantage of Lutz' poor service and needed only 15 minutes to win the fourth set. Then, he broke Lutz in the first game of the deciding set and hung on gamely to run out the match.

Ashe, the top-seeded American as a result of his eight straight singles victories in Davis Cup competition this year, had too much poise and all-around skill for Lutz.

However, Lutz refused to quit and made a tremendous bid to break Ashe's service in the 10th game of the final set.

Lutz had double break point, but Ashe rallied for deuce. On the game's fourth deuce, Lutz took advantage point as Ashe netted a forehand shot.

Ashe then forced Lutz into three straight errors to win the championship.

After the perspiration-soaked players took time out for rest at the end of the third set, Lutz could do little right. He lost eight straight games before managing to hold his service at deuce in the third game of the fifth set.

Ashe served 16 aces while double faulting only six times. Lutz had 13 aces, but he was guilty of 19 double faults, costing him the title.

Lutz broke Ashe in the fifth game in winning the first set. Ashe rode a break in the eighth game to victory in the second set.

Ashe was broken in the sixth and eighth games of the third set but came back to break Lutz in the ninth game. They battled on even terms before Ashe double faulted and was broken in the 18th game.

After that, it was all downhill for Lutz, an unseeded player although ranked 10th in the nation, who paired with USC teammate Stan Smith to win the men's doubles title Saturday.

Maria Bueno of Brazil earned the 54th title of an illustrious career by teaming with Australia's Margaret Smith Court in winning the U.S. Women's Doubles Championship in the 88th annual tournament.

Nevele Pride Wins Easily

... HAMBLETONIAN

Du Quoin, Ill. (P) — Nevele Pride, driven by Stanley Dancer, breezed to the Hambletonian championship Sunday in two straight heats, trotting the first in 1:59 3/5 and the second in 1:59 2/5.

The triumph, Dancer's first in 11 attempts in the premier stake for three-year-old trotters, was so easy that Nevele Pride's times were the only disappointments.

The great son of Star's Pride, purchased for $20,000 as a yearling by Nevele Acres and Louis Resnick of Ellendale, N.Y., scored by four lengths over Keystone Spartan, piloted by Del Miller, in the first heat.

In the second heat, Nevele Pride stretched out a 5 1/2-length triumph again over Keystone Spartan.

In each heat, Dart Hanover, driver by Sanders Russell, was third, close to Keystone Spartan.

At no time in both miles, trotted in cool, clear weather but against a 10-mile wind down the backstretch, was Nevele Pride less than two lengths ahead. And in each heat, the only trotter to beat Pride this year, Snow Speed, reined by Ralph Baldwin, broke stride.

Perhaps with Snow Speed out of contention on breaks, nothing much was left of the eight challengers to put on enough pressure for Dancer to let Pride go. However, Pride's 27-4-5 last quarter in the first heat was the second fastest in Hambletonian history.

The 43rd Hambletonian, held for the first time on a Sunday and drawing a grandstand crowd of 18,000, was worth $116,190. Nevele Pride collected $56,933, boosting his record earnings through two years to $511,400. His race mark now stands at 27 victories in 30 starts and two second places.

Second money of $28,466 went to Keystone Spartan, driver of $13,663 went to Dart Hanover.

Nevele Pride, winner of the $150,000 Yonkers Trot earlier this season, now has collected two jewels in trotting's triple crown. He will shoot for the third in the Kentucky Futurity at Lexington on Oct. 4.

'Zionists' Blamed By Polish General

© New York Times Service

Warsaw — A Polish general in charge of political indoctrination said Saturday that "Zionists" were responsible for the "real threat of transition from socialism to capitalism" which justified the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia.

A long article in the party newspaper Trybuna Ludu by Maj. Gen. Jan Czapla was the most outspoken example of the new wave of anti-Zionism which has emerged in the press since the invasion.

The article's importance, in official eyes, was underlined Sunday night when a television commentator quoted extensive excerpts which mentioned "Zionists" three times.

Recently Quiet

For almost two months the state-controlled press has been virtually devoid of references to Jews or "Zionists." However, hundreds of articles this spring blamed Zionists, "revisionists" and discredited Stalinists for fomenting nationwide student demonstrations in March.

Party leader Wladyslaw Gomulka finally succeeded in muzzling the anti-Zionist campaign but only after he and other Polish leaders admitted it had degenerated into an anti-Semitic witch hunt.

Czapla drew a parallel between such "anti-socialist" forces at work in Poland last spring and in Czechoslovakia and said the "common element" was the "extremely vigorous combination of Zionism."

Deputy Chief

The general, who is deputy chief of the Polish army's political board, said: "These elements, which constitute an international bridgehead of imperialism, did everything to utilize their extensive influence towards anti-socialist infiltration."

"But the difference is that in Poland we were effective in nipping them in the bud."

Soviet Threat Said Faced In Agreement

© New York Times Service

Belgrade — Yugoslavia and Romania are believed to have agreed to coordinate their moves against potential Soviet threats.

Western diplomats here assume that Nicolae Ceausescu, chief of the Romanian Communist Party, consulted President Josip Broz Tito in their meeting Saturday, on the Romanian government's request to Moscow for a guarantee against any military intervention. They believe the pair agreed to coordinate their actions in dealing with the Soviet Union.

Tito and Ceausescu conferred at Vrsac, a Yugoslav town near the Romanian border. There is little doubt here that the main topic was the ominous Soviet military activity on Romania's borders that Eastern European intelligence agencies observed even before Czechoslovakia's invasion.

Nobody here so far has said expressly that Yugoslavia, too, may be menaced by Soviet military might, but this nation readily grasped the implication when Tito said in a speech on Friday that "we shall know how to defend our free development from whichever side this threat may come."

How's Your Vocabulary?

A publisher in Chicago reveals a method for building a working knowledge of over 2,000 words quickly and easily.

People unable to express themselves effectively often lose business and social opportunities. Others who use their vocabulary improperly, subject themselves to ridicule and cause others to misunderstand them.

We need a good vocabulary, says the publisher, to really understand more clearly what we read and hear, to think with greater clarity and logic, to express ourselves more effectively when we speak or write. A command of one's vocabulary instills confidence in their ability to speak convincingly and impress others with their knowledge and understanding.

To acquaint the readers of this publication with the rules for developing a large vocabulary, the publishers have printed details of their method in a new booklet, "Adventures in Vocabulary," which will be mailed free. No obligation. Send your name, address, and zip code to: Vocabulary Studies, 835 Diversey Parkway, Dept. 387-018, Chicago, Ill. 60614. A postcard will do.

Soviet Newsmen Killed In Prague

Moscow (UPI) — Informed sources Sunday reported two Soviet newsmen were killed in Prague by rifle fire from the ground which hit a Russian helicopter dropping propaganda leaflets over the Czechoslovakian capital.

The sources identified the newsmen as Karol Nepozhny, chief of the foreign department of the news agency Novosti, and Pyotr Svokin, Novosti's Prague correspondent.

Kiesinger Calls For Heads Of NATO Countries To Meet

© New York Times Service

Bonn — Chancellors Kurt Georg Kiesinger Sunday night called for a summit conference of the government heads of NATO countries to wake up the Western nations and prompt them to "watch over liberty and security."

Speaking over the Sudwest radio station about the impact of the Czechoslovak crisis on the Western alliance, he said a summit conference of NATO leaders should reflect on "what one can do to fill this tired workaday operation with life."

He said this should "in no way mean that NATO should be instilled with bellicose spirit, but rather with the simple recognition of where one stands."

'More Distinct'

Kiesinger said he thought President de Gaulle of France might make his relationship to NATO "more distinct and decisive" as a result of the Warsaw Pact's action against Czechoslovakia.

De Gaulle, he added, knows that a peace settlement in Europe cannot be brought about if a defenseless West Europe confronts an "overarmed Russia."

Because of the new situation in Central Europe, the chancellor said, he was awaiting his scheduled talks with De Gaulle on Wednesday in Bonn "with great suspense."

'New Epoch'

The Soviet coup in Czechoslovakia made it imperative for West Germans "to heighten our watchfulness," he said, and to "make the necessary sacrifices for our defense."

He called it all the more reason to unite Western Europe, saying, "The great hour of the Europeans has come again."

The chancellor asserted that the events in Czechoslovakia heralded "a new epoch which one can, it is true, suppress by force, but which cannot be held up for long."

East German Paper Points To 'Zionists'

© New York Times Service

Bonn — Neues Deutschland, the main organ of East Germany's ruling Communist Party, charged Sunday that "Zionist forces have taken over the leadership" of the Communist Party of Czechoslovakia.

The editorial comment appeared to be part of a propaganda campaign coordinated between the Soviet Union and its followers. According to a wire service report the Polish party paper, Trybuna Ludu, also carried a commentary attacking "Zionists." They represented the first anti-Semitic note struck in the Moscow-loyal press since the Warsaw Pact invasion of Czechoslovakia last week.

Neues Deutschland's comment, designed to justify the occupation of Czechoslovakia, was prefaced with the remark that "the workers have lost control over the Communist Party of Czechoslovakia."

There was new evidence that the Ulbricht regime is experiencing considerable difficulty explaining why East German troops had marched into Czechoslovakia just 30 years after Hitler's Wehrmacht seized the Sudetenland regions of Czechoslovakia.

DID YOU KNOW THIS? IT'S A FACT:

Massachusetts is the only state in the Union still governed under its original constitution.

The first written constitution in America was Connecticut's Fundamental Orders of Connecticut (1639).

A hailstorm that struck Wichita, Kan., in 1951 caused more than $14 million in property damage.

Chile did not declare war on the World War II axis powers until Feb. 14, 1945.

The birthstone for March is the bloodstone or aquamarine.

Here's How To Work It

One letter simply stands for another in this example. A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.
